Day at The Castle

Tour the house, cook like a pioneer, create a craft from the past, and learn games from long ago. This is a hands-on program that teaches how food was obtained, prepared, preserved, and cooked in the nineteenth century. Participants help fix a rustic stew, cornbread, and applesauce cake cooked in our fireplace and then served as the midday meal. Groups choose from a variety of craft activities, for example: leatherwork, pottery, thaumatrope, and paper weaving. We also include indoor and/or outdoor (weather permitting) pastimes (aka games) for this program.

Timeframe: 4 hours
Availability: September - April; begins at 10 am

Please Note: With this program a meal is provided, as described above. We cook our meal so that all participants, including chaperones, can partake. Those not interested in the meal may bring their own bagged lunch, but we do not provide refrigeration. Please notify us of dietary restrictions.
